

Definitions

Computer Network. A group of two or more computers and devices interconnected, either wired or wirelessly, to communicate with each other and share resources and information among connected devices.

Convertible Tablet Personal Computer (PC). A mobile computer that can be operated as a traditional laptop (e.g., by use of a keyboard and mouse) or as a tablet computer (e.g., by touching the computer's display screen).

Deployment Kit. A collection of hardware and accessories to be issued to a user as part of the Mobile Recruiter Initiative. Includes a mobile computer, mobile printer, mobile scanner, a portable speaker, and associated cables. Is issued with a rolling suitcase that houses all equipment issued as part of the kit.

Flash Media. Portable devices utilizing flash memory, a computer storage technology that can be erased and reprogrammed. Can include memory cards, thumb drives, and flash drives.

Mobile Printer. A document printer designed for portable use. Can be easily and safely transported by hand and is compatible with mobile computers such as laptops or convertible tablet PCs.

Mobile Scanner. A document scanner designed for handheld use. Can be easily and safely transported by hand and is compatible with mobile computers such as laptops or convertible tablet PCs.

Navy Marine Corps Intranet (NMCI). A computer network used exclusively by the Department of the Navy (DON) and the Marine Corps. Is not accessible to the public.

Network. A group of two or more computers and devices interconnected, either wired or wirelessly, to communicate with each other and share resources and information among connected devices.

Social Network. An information technology service that focuses on building online communities of people who share interests and activities, or who are interested in exploring the interests and activities of others. Most social network services are web based and provide a variety of ways for users to interact, such as e-mail, personal home pages, public forums and instant messaging services.

25 Aug 2011

WiFi. A branded standard for wirelessly connecting electronic devices to enable communication and data sharing among connected devices.

.com Environment. The Internet as accessed via public methods outside of the NMCI network or DoD network. Can be accessed via a variety of internet connection types, including 3G or 4G, WiFi, or local area network (LAN) connections.

3G. An abbreviation for "third generation," the third generation of wireless technology standards that fulfill the International Mobile Telecommunications-2000 (IMT-2000) specifications set by the International Telecommunication Union.

4G. An abbreviation for "fourth generation," the fourth generation of wireless technology standards that fill the International Mobile Telecommunications Advanced (IMT-Advanced) specifications set by the International Telecommunication Union in 2009.