NAVY RESERVE NURSE CORPS

No matter where you want your career to go, in America's Navy Reserve Nurse Corps, you can get there as a key member of this prestigious team of healthcare professionals – and as an officer. Navy Reserve Nurses enjoy assignments that span the complete range of the nursing practice, from medical and surgical to critical care, perioperative, anesthesia, nursing education and administration.

America's Navy Reserve offers exceptional opportunities for professional development in new and exciting environments, as well as the pride of playing an important role in serving your country. To qualify, you must possess a valid nursing license and a Bachelor of Science in Nursing. Financial incentive programs are also available for qualified Nurse Corps Officers.

“There’s nothing more gratifying. In the military, I have more autonomy and control over my work. And people here, regardless of their rank, seem to listen to each other and exchange ideas more often.”

LIFE IN THE NAVY RESERVE

You'll receive the same training and opportunities as your active duty counterparts.

Help not only those in the military, but also family members and people in need around the globe. Primarily, you'll look after the medical needs of the men and women who defend all we hold dear back home as well as their families, and veterans. You may also fill in for deployed Active Duty Navy Nurses, working mainly at locations that are typically close to your home.

You may also take part in humanitarian relief efforts. Like administering infant vaccinations to the children of Cienaga, Colombia. Or provide emergency care to victims of a deadly earthquake in Haiti. Navy Reserve Nurses also take part in outreach programs both home and abroad. You will collaborate with physicians, surgeons, cardiologists and fellow nurses as colleagues and equals while you develop leadership skills that will set you apart from your civilian counterparts.

As a Navy Reservist you'll not only be serving your country, you'll be enhancing your own civilian career. You'll have access to great training and leadership-building opportunities that will help you move up both in the Navy and in your civilian career. The Navy will work with you so you can be flexible in scheduling your Reserve time. It really is the best of both worlds. You serve your country—you stay true to yourself.

BENEFITS IN AMERICA'S NAVY RESERVE

Success as a Navy Reserve Officer is up to you. You will lead men and women who have pledged to defend our nation. It's a responsibility – and an honor – of the highest order, and those who meet the challenge are rewarded accordingly.

For those who have already served in the military, America's Navy Reserve offers the opportunity to maintain your rank and retirement benefits already earned on active duty. For newly commissioned officers, service brings a sense of pride and accomplishment – even as it enables you to build the technical and leadership skills to raise your civilian career to new heights.

In return for your service and dedication, the Navy Reserve will provide you with benefits to enhance both your military and civilian lives:

- Paid weekend drill once a month
- 2 weeks per year training required (paid travel may be required)
- Educational financial assistance
- Qualify for VA home loans
- Low-cost insurance options, including up to $400,000 in life insurance
- Military Commissary and Navy Exchange privileges for you and your family
- Access to Officers' Clubs worldwide
- Special pay incentives may be available for officers possessing certain in-demand skill sets
- Retirement benefits
